AWARD AT AIREDALE SHOW IS UNPOPULAR

Afton Queen Oorang Is Placed Over Imported York Reyburn Swell.

McGOUGH'S PUPPIES SCORE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21 .- At the speclaity show of the Philadelphia Airedale Terrier Club here to-day on the roof of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel it cannot be said that the judging gave entire satisfaction, and perhaps the most unpopular award made by Harold Ober was when he placed Andrew Albright's bitch champion Afton Queen Oorang over Theodore Offerman's York Reyburn Swell for the prize for the best dog or bitch in the show. Up till the last award Reyburn Swell, a recently imported dog and one which was made a champion by N. S. Offerman in England, was the chief win-ner among those of his sex. Albright's bitch had previously beaten in her class N. S. Offerman's champion Polain Milk-mald, again a questionable result, since Milkmald, though no better in head, stood better, was stronger in her pasterns and undemably better in hocks. Afton Queen Oorang showed weakness atton Queen Obrang showed weakness in the off hock, but her good color and excellent coat and deep body and good ribs evidently weighed a great deal with the New York judge. York Reyburn Swell made his first appearance in America. He is certainly a high class Airedale with lots of quality and is a good shower. ica. He is certainly a high class Airedale with lots of quality and is a good shower. That he was put down as fit as hands could make him there was no doubt. He is heautiful in color and his head may be classed as rather more fine than powerful. He is on the leg as an Airedale should be and he is a reachy one to boot. He could be deeper in his brisket, especially in the depth between his forelegs, for from the pout he appears a little Copthorne Meteor, owned by Mrs. legs, for from the pout he appears a little hollow chested. This formation should, however, favorably develop with age. He is perfect in legs and feet, his back is good and his black colored saddle is right, his coat is harsh and there was plenty of the legs and the property of the legs and the le it. His ears are nicely shaped, but they could be smaller and at times he stood indifferently at his books. He placed them inward as he rushed on, to be of course held back by the collar. He was, course held back by the collar. He was however, a general favorite at the show and probably the best Airedale present.

The winner in puppy dogs was H. M. Donovan's All's Well Peer Gynt, one of a taking kind, but he had all he could do to beat John McGough's Fair Play, a well grown one, good in color and coat. In novice dogs Fair Play got his own back, beating Dr. Frank Graner's Rose-croft Trifler, long in head, but light in hind quarters. A good headed, lightly cast dog in Andrew McCrea's Abercorn Goldcap was third. In American breddogs John McGough wen again with Fair Play, Rosecroft Trifler being second and Goldcap third. Fourth was given to Mrs. Gates's Malvern Gadfly, a long headed and good colored dog, rather heavy in ear.

In the limit class N. S. Offerman's York Ocran's Master Piece won. He is a stylish dog with a good outline, well shown and not so good in color as his kennel companion Reyburn Swell. Gertrude Lady Decles. Lady Samuelson registered the affix "of Braywick" in England, but recently she retired from showing dogs and passed on "Braywick" to her friend Mrs. Harper. Thus, in the future, the elegant and well found kennels at Gramercy Square and at the Harpe country and summer home up State wi be known as the Gramercy Kennels, and all the dogs that come out of them will bear the distinctive affix "of Braywick." When the visitor goes to see Mrs. Har-per's dogs he is greeted by a crowd of these affectionate and fashionable little pets. They hasten to the wicket door and their barks are certainly more vicious than their bites. Each dog is well looked among the dogs, and as for the pupples, it is patent that Miss Grant has discovered some extra good way to condition the
